LOCAL TRANSPORTATION CAREERS IN MINNESOTA

FOR JOB SEEKERS
(WITH OR WITHOUT CDL)

“I’ve worked in different departments: traffic, streets, parks, engineering studies, light replacement... Career-wise, if you keep an open mind and follow your curiosity, it will open doors for you.”

Jacob Remmington, Streets Maintenance Worker, City of Hopkins

“Get where you want to go.

Roll with our transportation maintenance team.”

GREAT BENEFITS (like work-life balance)

The considerable benefits offered at many local agencies—healthcare, retirement plans, paid time and holidays off, training and wellness programs—can be worth their weight in gold and offset the higher hourly pay that some private companies pay. You have time to spend with your friends and family to do the things you enjoy while off the clock. Plan for your future while living a full life and pursuing rewarding work today!

Benefits

Public-sector positions provide many valuable benefits—these make up for gaps in pay.

Schedules

Work schedules are more predictable and regular than many comparable private-sector positions.

Work/Life Balance

Many transportation jobs require extended stays away. Local agency positions are close to home and serve the community.

SKILLING UP TO SUCCESS

It’s common for people to have misperceptions that roadway maintenance positions require more training than they actually do. For many transportation maintenance positions, you can get your start with a high school diploma or GED. Once you’re on the team, specialized trainings—like how to operate equipment safely—is provided on the job. Employers often support additional training or licensure (such as a CDL) through any number of programs offered throughout the state. Check out the training guide at MNTransportationCareers.com to see what kind of online and in-person resources are available to advance your knowledge, skills, and career!
